OpenVox Receives a 2008 INTERNET TELEPHONY Excellence Award

IX100 Honored For Delivering Exceptional VoIP/IP Communications Solutions

Shenzhen, China, October 22, 2008 —OpenVox announced today that Technology Marketing Corporation (TMC) has named IX100 as a recipient of a 2008 INTERNET TELEPHONY Excellence Award presented by INTERNET TELEPHONY magazine (www.itmag.com).

OpenVox IX100 IPPBX kit is based on x86 architecture and designed for Small & Medium Businesses. System developers can run most of the production version PBX software including asterisk® in this kit. It can also simplify the installation procedure and thus, no more complicated migration work needed. Developers will definitely save much time as well as money right from the beginning in developing open source IPPBX.

"It's our honor to receive this recognition from TMC for OpenVox IX100. This award acknowledges the achievements of distinct innovation for our products that we are always after." said Miao Lin, the president of OpenVox, "OpenVox aims to provide the best cost effective and most innovative products with superior service to the whole open source community and, we always do. With the new IX100, we are continuing our commitments to all our customers."

"We are proud to present OpenVox with a 2008 INTERNET TELEPHONY Excellence Award. IX100 has proven its outstanding contribution to IP communications and delivered winning solutions for its customers," indicated Rich Tehrani, Editor-in-Chief of INTERNET TELEPHONY.

"Taking risks to advance VoIP technology and provide real solutions has earned OpenVox recognition from the editors of INTERNET TELEPHONY and an INTERNET TELEPHONY Excellence Award. IX100 has excelled in delivering solutions and its customers are extremely pleased and have offered their testaments of support," said Greg Galitzine, Editorial Director of INTERNET TELEPHONY.

The 2008 INTERNET TELEPHONY Excellence Award winners have been published in the October 2008 issue of INTERNET TELEPHONY magazine, www.itmag.com.
